The greatest nuisance on crowded days has been from threesomes or foursomes blocking the course and creating other con-fusion. Last season the New York Golf Club, which uses the public links, ran off a foursome competition on one Saturday, but there is no such competition scheduled this season, and the rules are not aimed at this organization, which in a general way has done a good deal to maintain order on the Van Cortlandt course and to improve the character of the golding. The members of the New York Golf Club, however, must obey the rules the same as the unattached golfers. There has been some friction over the promulgation of the rules by Commissioner without first consulting the New York Golf Club committee, but the members of the organization were quickly informed that the course is for the public, without any favorites, and that they must get into ine and obey them the same as every one

No complaint may now be made with fairness against the condition of the public course. It is the intention to keep the greens rolled and the rough grass bordering the fair green closely cut, to prevent balls being lost so often, throughout the remainder of the season. The improved facilities for golfing are increasing the number of visitors each week, and the rules, which are the first ever drawn up in accord with golfing sense for the links, it is believed, will make the game more enjoyable to all classes of players. The many flagrant violations of the rules and etiquette of the

By a misprint, no doubt, the announcement sent out by the Shinnecock Hills Golf (but gives the dates of Aug. 27, 28 and 29 for the annual invitation tournament. As the days named are Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the notice at first glance is a starting one from the staid club that will not allow caddies to work on Sunday unless over twenty-one years of age. The proper dates are July 27, 28 and 29, and the tournament will be the next within the Metropolitan folif Association district. There is some talk of a competition for professionals also at Shinnecock Hills, but nothing has been definitely fixed. In the coming event there will be prizes for the first four eights, the handicap winner and for the best round at eighteen holes during the tournament. The entries close with J. A. Seaver at the chibhouse, on July 26. This will be the order of play:

July 27.—A. M., qualifying round; P. M., first

July 27 .- A. M., qualifying round; P. M., first July 27.—A. M., qualifying round; F. M., final matches. July 28.—A. M., semi-final; P. M., final matches. July 29.—Open handicap, thirty-six holes. It was the intention to hold the tournament the first week in August, but when Secretary Calkins received the application he suggested the last week of this month, so that players high take part without losing the opportunity to also take part in the amateur championship should they so wish. The trustees accepted the hint and selected July 27, 28 and 29.

The Eastern players to take part in the tournament of the advertising and collateral trades left yesterday in a special car for Cleveland. The tournament will a be on the links of the Euclid Country Club, to-morrow, Wednesday and Thursday. Frank Presbrey is President of the organization, which complises over 300 members. There will be forty-five prizes to be awarded at the tournament, more than are usually offered in eight or ten ordinary tournaments.

The Iowa and Wisconsin championships are on for decision in the West this week, and also the annual tournament of the Onwentsia Club. In the East the only tournament will be at the Ekwanok Country Club. at Manchester, for the Taconic cup. Warren Dickinson, of Des Moines, won the Transmississippi championship at St. Louis on Saturday, over the Glen Echo course, beating Walter Fairbanks of Denver by 8 and 4 in the final Dickinson is a former holder of the Iowa championship.

The second renewal of the Pater Filius cup brought out thirty-one pairs to the tee at Midlothian, and twenty-nine went the thirty-six hole route. The only cause for bad golf by the seniors, according to one report, was their anxiety to escape criticism from the youngsters. Arthur P. Bowen and his son, Gerald, of Riverside, won with 197, 18—179. There was a tie for second between charles D. and Paul Hunter, winners last year, 185, 8—180, and Stewart and L. Clark, Lyanston, 194, 14—180. The Hunters, who were on their home links, had the best gross tore.

John Reid, Jr., Archie Reid and Everett Masten, who were missed from the monthly handicap at St. Andrews on Saturday, are up in Nova Scotia on a fishing trip.

In a suit to maintain the Haskell ball patent in England the decision has been against the Americans. An appeal has been taken to the House of Lords. Unless the decision of the lower court is reversed there will be no restrictions hereafter on the open competitive manufacture of rubber cored golf balls.

COLF RULES AT PUBLIC LINKS.

The Haskell Ball Company sought to have their registered patent of 1898 upheld. The evidence submitted, however, seems to have convinced the Judge that they did not prove priority of invention. Capt. Duncan Stowart, R. N. stated that in the early 70s he made golf balls, sold them and gave them away, in the composition of which only rubber threads in the core were used. Two professionals. George and Willie Fernie, also convinced the Judge that they had made similar rubber cored balls and that a patent had been taken out for them, though they were never brought to the mechanical perfection admittedly attained by the Haskell.

TIMELY BOXING TALK. Proposed Finish Fight Between Britt and

Nelson Discussed. The dickering by two Western clubs for a match between Jimmy Britt and Battling Nelson indicates that the day when clubs will strive for important fistic bouts has not entirely passed. Undoubtedly Britt and Nelson are the two foremost lightweights in the ring to-day. Despite Nelson's defeat by Britt there are many who regard him as the Californian's master and will not be convinced that Britt has much on him until they meet again. It has been suggested that if the pair meet again the encounter should be to a finish. There are two places where just such a combat can be decided, namely, Colma, Cal., and Reno, Nev. Jimmy Coffroth, at the head of the Colma A. C., has agreed to give the pair a purse of $20,000 for a fifty round bout, or, in other words, a contest to a finish, and Egan and Livingston are ready to donate an incentive of $15,000 for a mill without any limit at Reno.

Britt, by virtue of his many fine achieve-ments in the ring during the last two years, stands out rather conspicuously as the best lightweight in the country. He is not the champion in this class, although his friends look upon him as such. The honor belongs to Joe Gans, and he will have to be recog-Enowledges that he cannot successfully reduce to 133 pounds ringside or is unwilling to take place next October somewhere in the West. Beell has not done any wrestling to speak about since his private match in this city with Tom Jenkins. Under Parker's guidance Beell has been studying a lot of new tricks and when Beell goes against Gotch it is thought that he will do well. Parker has mapped out a long campaign for his protege for the coming fall and winter. This is what Parker says of Beell's plans:

"After we have cleaned up the bunch around New York we will make several excursions through the West. If successful, we will return immediately to New York and then visit England. Beell has an idea that he can beat Hackenschmidt. So have I, but I have decided to wait until we have shown our hand in New York to a metropolitan crowd. I don't think that Hackenschmidt will turn down a proposition from Beell, even at catchas-catch-can. He promised me this much when as-catch-can. He promised me this much when he was here last, but he thought that Beell should make a name first. Beell has already been well started in this direction and if nothing happens between now and next Christmas Beell and myself will go abroad. I have been on the other side, so I know the ropes pretty well. There is a lot of money to be made abroad with a first class wrestler, and in Beell I think I have the goods. As for myself, I have retired as far as America is concerned. You see I am getting old, and training and managing wrestlers is much concerned. You see I am getting old, and training and managing wrestlers is much easier than participating in the game yourself. But there is no telling what I might do on the other side. I beat Bulldog Clayton when I was in England, and he may want a return match. His sponsors are good sports and backed him heavily when we met before. If they consent to do the same thing again there is no reason why yours truly should not throw off the shackles of retirement and get down to business again.

George Bothner is another wrestler who is planning to do a lot of grappling when the season begins again. Bothner has gone to the mountains to get into trim. Bill Brown an intimate friend of Bothner, has received a letter from George, in which the latter writes: I am going to show some of my detractors this winter that I can get down to 135 pounds. You know this was disputed. When I lmet Eugene Tremble in Canada the last time I weighed 138 pounds, so you see I am still the lightweight champion. I made 138 pounds without much trouble, and it is a cinch that I can take off the extra three pounds if I get down to real, hard training, which I intend to do. The mountains are the finest place in the world to get into trim. The weight one takes on is just the kind that is easy to take off. I feel as strong as a bull and believe that I will have no trouble in demonstrating that I am as good as ever."

Beck Olsen, the Swedish champion, who beat Ernest Roeber at Madison Square Garden a few months age, is coming to America again, according to a letter received in this city by a friend of the crack foreigner. If Olsen comes he will not arrive before November next.

So Announcer Fred Burns walked Kramer up in front of the grand stand and told its occupants about the great trip the champion had had. Then the pair walked down and balted in front of the bleacherites. When Burns with his best French accent told the crowd there that Kramer had won the "Grand Prix de la Ville de Paris" they howled for more French and cheered both Kramer and Burns with beautiful impartiality. Then Kramer rode his flying quarter mile in 25 4-5 seconds and was a spectator the rest of the evening. Marcus L. Hurley of the New York A. C., the retired world's amateur champion, was one of those present to greet Kramer. Willie Fenn, who recently returned from a European trip also, won both of the professional events with an ease shat was insulting to his opponents, as he sat up both times before crossing the tape. Root, McFarland, Dorlon, Lee and Fogler were the other starters in the final of the mile open, Fogler and Dorlon being the only pair to "team." Fenn sprinted away from the others in the straight and won by two lengths and a half.

The field bunched in the seventh lap of the five mile handicap and Fogler and Lee won most of the lap prizes from then on. Fogler led at the bell and did yeoman service in keeping Fenn, with whom he was teamed, up in front until the last turn was reached. There John Bedell tried to pace his team mate. Root, to the front, but Fenn was not to be denied. He kept the lead and won by a length and a half.

Jittle Sherwood captured both of the amateur races, in spite of the very efficient team work of the Bay View Wheelmen pair, Rupprecht and Franks.

American professional champion met with great success while abroad and enjoyed a series of triumphs surpassed only by those of that other New Jersey boy, Arthur A. Zimmerman of Manasquan. The newspapers is Europe called Kramer "the unbeatable one," from the great number of times he won match races in straight heats. For winning the Grand Prix de Paris, Kramer was lionized by the French cycle racegoers, and in addition to the large cash prize, recived a Sèvres vass from the French Government porcelain factory.

This pleasant, squarejawed, blond youth, who has won the American professional cycle sprinting championship for the past four years, modestly declined to tell just how much European money he had won during his short trip, but did say that he had finished first in seventeen out of twenty open and match races in which he contested, in addition to having some prizes captured in handicap contests. He sailed away on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on March 7, and during the time he was in Europe he raced in France, England, Italy, Belglium and Germany. In so great demand did this successful young American become that he tells of one week when he appeared in Italy, France and Belgium during seven con-

Connors Runs Plucky Race at Brooklyn

Frederick J. Connors gave an exhibition o gameness yesterday morning at the Brooklyn A. C. games at Maspeth. He ran himself out mer Home.

Fenn and Sherwood captured the races in their respective classes, but the real hero of the occasion at the electric light cycle meet on the Vailsburg track Saturday night was Kramer. It was the first appearance in public of the four times American champion since his return from his very successful European racing campaign and more than 4,000 persons assembled to do him honor and witness the other attractions provided for their amusement.

The champion did not compete in either of the professional events, as he said he had not yet lost his sea legs after landing from the Deutschland on Thursday last. He was down for a quarter mile exhibition and the crowd insisted that he be introduced before his ride.

Of the eighteen parcels that comprised last week's offerings at public sale seventeen were put up by order of court in foreclosure proceedings. Nine of them were disposed of at bids that aggregated $121,800. The rest were withdrawn or adjourned. The parcels that attracted the chief attention were a Riverside Drive residence and a Howard street holding, sold by Joseph P. Day, and an Astor leasehold at the northeast corner of Forty-sixth street and Eighth avenue, sold by Bryan L. Kennelly. The Riverside Drive property brought the highest price of the week, $65,000. This week The Bronx will furnish the most attractive offering. On Tuesday, in the Vessey street Exchange, James L. Wells will sell thirty-seven lots at Williamsbridge for the estate of Walter P. Jayne. The lots lie between Second and Park avenues and 216th and 219th streets. On the same day D. Phemix Ingraham will put up a valuable plot 75x106, with a frame dwelling, on Robbins avenue between 149th street and Westchester avenue. The rest of the offerings are by order of court.
